Outlet Information

Add $1.00 if you want a rotating Night Light Fixture

If the orientation of your outlet is not standard you should have a rotating fixture so the orientation is correct. The fixtures are polarized meaning one slot is wider.

Standard Orientation

This is the way most outlets are

Option 1 orientation

I have seen this configuration

Option 2 orientation

I have one like this on my fireplace hearth but I have heard of them in kitchens and bathrooms

Option 3 orientation

I have never seen this configuration

About my Stained Glass Panels

1. All the panels are framed by a solid red oak frame finished with Tung Oil.
2. Panels are supplied with appropriate eye hooks if desired. They will not be installed unless requested. For eye hooks installed by you, care should be taken to drill a pilot hole first or the eye hook will break. For small panels take care to penetrate the frame for 7/16 “ or less.
3. Most panels pictured are single one of a kind panels. Custom Panels of a similar pattern can be requested.
4. A light box using a 120 VAC LED light string can be custom ordered for the small panels at a charge of $50.00. The light box cabinet is red oak and the panel can be installed in the cabinet and removed if needed.
